PREFACE

Some ten years ago my attention was first called to this interesting and well-nigh forgotten phase of printing, by the discovery of a few choice copies of literary annuals and gift-books in my father's library. Not being able to discover any even partially complete bibliography, I began listing every copy that came to my notice, as a revival of interest in these books was apparent among collectors owing to the fact that the first editions of articles by noted writers, and engravings by well-known artists, were often included.

The Boston Public Library Bulletin of October, 1893, contains a list of some one hundred and twenty-five titles, representing that library's collection at that time.

In the July, 1902, issue of the Bulletin of the New York Public Library is printed a list of that library's literary annuals, a large collection of these having been acquired by gift at about that time. This list contains one hundred and eighty-five titles, and over four hundred volumes. It makes note of the curious fact that certain American "gifts" had different titles, but the same contents. But the notes on this subject there printed are far from exhaustive, and as far as the writer knows, no study of these spurious and duplicate issues has hitherto been made. It is one of the most interesting phases of the subject in hand, and while the notes made in this bibliography are probably not complete, they will save many a collector from needless duplication of matter, and they throw a strong light on this rather questionable practice of certain publishers. The English publications were known as "Drawing-room annuals," and the only printed list of them known to me is by Charles T. Tallent-Bateman of Manchester. It is in tabular form, contains one hundred and nine titles, and may be found in the Papers of the Manchester Literary Club for 1897. The assistance Mr. Tallent-Bateman has given me is acknowledged below.

There are included in my list several titles of magazines which, in order to share in the sale of annuals, were gotten out at the end of each year with slightly changed titles. A few entries, with proper notes, are made covering books with titles which make them appear to be "annuals" when they are really miscellanies not in true "gift-book" form.

In 1908 was commenced in the Bulletin of Bibliography the serial publication of my bibliography with a request for additions and corrections. Owing to the impracticability of holding the type indefinitely, the matter was rearranged in octavo form and shortly after each installment appeared was, with any additions available, printed off and the type distributed.

About the time this serial publication began, I determined to include in the list the little 32mo books of which "The Hare-bell," "The Golden Gift" and "The Flower Vase" are examples. These flourished in the forties, and while not "annuals," were "literary gift books." Some of them ran into ten, or even more, editions, each practically from the same type. In book-sale catalogues these are usually included with the "annuals," and, while most of them would more properly be classed under "selected poetry," they also claim a position in a list of "gift-books." This explains the rather long list in the Addenda, a large proportion of the added entries being these modest $4\frac{1}{2} \times 2\frac{3}{4}$ -inch gifts. Much as I deplore having to look in two places for what should be found in one alphabet, it seemed better to include all titles discovered up to the date of publication, as the list is thus rendered more nearly complete.

The chronological index to titles which has been added will be found useful as showing when the various gift-books started and the extent to which their publication was carried in certain years.

I wish to make especial mention here of the valuable assistance given me on Part II of this volume, The English Annuals, by a fellow enthusiast in Manchester, England, C. T. Tallent-Bateman, Esq., whose printed list of the English annuals has been referred to above. He has kindly consented to read the galley for this part of the bibliography, and has added over two hundred and fifty titles to the list, many of them not in the British Museum. It is only to be regretted that he has been unable to supply the full record of these new titles — size, pagination, etc., — in time for inclusion here. The initials T.-B. are added after the entries supplied by him, and none of these have been found by me in any of the American libraries I have checked.

I also wish here to record my grateful appreciation of the courtesies extended to me at the Library of Congress, New York Public Library, Philadelphia Mercantile Library, Boston Public Library, Columbia University Library, Harvard University Library, and the Boston Athenæum, where every facility was afforded me for the study of their collections.

LITERARY ANNUALS AND GIFT-BOOKS

ORIGIN AND DURATION

As a mere list of these interesting books would mean but little to those not familiar with the volumes at first hand, and as the custom of collecting them is growing, I venture to introduce the list by a few explanatory pages, in the hope that many book-lovers and lovers of art may become interested.

"The Forget-me-not," published in England in 1823, was undoubtedly the first "literary annual." It was published by R. Ackermann, and edited by Frederic Shoberl, who noted the success of certain "Almanacs" and "Pocketbooks" which were then appearing in Germany. His surmise that an improved variety of these books would find support in England seems to have been correct. The results must have exceeded his fondest hopes, for the "gift-book" demand increased until it can only be called a fad or a craze. The lone Forget-me-not of 1823 was joined by two others in 1824, and nine came forth in 1825. In 1832 sixty-three different "gifts" under as many different titles claimed a share of the public's patronage.

The decline was as rapid as the rise, for in 1857, the year of the final or 30th annual issue of the "Keepsake," this phase of book-making in England was practically over.

"The Forget-me-not" had appeared regularly for twenty-five years, "Friendship's Offering" had twenty-one volumes to its credit, "Heath's Book of Beauty" came forth seventeen times to adorn my lady's boudoir, or grace her drawing-room table. The best account of the English Annual "craze" will be found in Papers of the Manchester Literary Club, 1902, pp. 78-98, the article being entitled, "The Forget-me-not," and contributed by Mr. Tallent-Bateman.

In the United States, while publishers were a little slow in getting started, the fad developed into even greater proportions and lasted longer.

In 1826, three years after the English pioneer, the "Atlantic Souvenir" saw light in Philadelphia, compiled after the pattern of its English brethren, getting its pictures abroad, but employing American writers, as did most of the early American annuals. In 1832, when the English output was at high-water mark, America had but twelve or thirteen. It may be assumed that the British volumes sold in the American shops, thus dividing the demand. As the English "tokens" gradually disappeared, the American publishers issued an ever-increasing number, until from 1846 to 1852 an average of sixty appeared each year — sixty-six have been recorded for 1851, and there were probably others. By 1860 the American literary gift-book was practically a thing of the past, henceforth only to be found in attics, or second-hand stores.

"The Rose of Sharon" holds the American record for duration, with its eighteen volumes. "The

"Token" was successful during fifteen years, while the "Odd Fellows Offering" gladdened the hearts and eyes of its patrons for twelve years.

Many lived for two or more years, but the great majority came only once, and, not being strong enough to hold their place, were soon forgotten.

Many there were which, in bidding for part of the public's favor, were not ashamed to take on the name of some famous issue, lately deceased; still others were these same well-known "back numbers" brought forth anew with different names and current dates, thus successfully passing as new "tokens of love or friendship." Be it said to their credit, such practices were never indulged in by the English gift-book publishers.

II

PHYSICAL APPEARANCE AND MAKE-UP

The "really truly" gift-books had an appearance and make-up all their own, very different from any other volumes. At first they were the small duodecimos, then octavos, and finally some of them appeared as quartos. Their bindings were ornate, often to the point of gaudiness. If of leather the covers were heavily embossed, or profusely gilt, or if a cloth was desired, a watered silk dress gave distinction to the volumes. Some of the earlier ones had engraved paper sides, usually green. Some had bindings with a floral design inlaid with mother-of-pearl. A few had slip-cases to protect their bindings, a ribbon being attached with which to pull forth the volume. Some had large paper editions, sold at a higher price than the regular copies.

The contents consisted of prose — short stories and essays — and selected poetry often with flowery borders about each page. There were illustrations — engravings or colored plates — dignified in the catalogues as embellishments. These numbered anywhere from one to twenty-five or thirty and were either illustrative of the text (though there are suspicions that oftentimes the story was written up to the pictures), or had no connection whatever with the contents. There was, usually, an engraved or colored "inscription plate" upon which the donor was expected to write his name and that of the fortunate recipient-to-be. Many of the later "tokens," especially the spurious ones, had crudely colored inscription plates and illuminated title pages. The pagination almost invariably began in Roman numerals, covering contents pages, list of plates and preface, then Arabic figures for the rest of the book. When there are found two series of pages in a volume, each beginning from page 1, and there are twelve engravings or twelve colored flower plates, it may be taken as a sign that what we have is really a monthly magazine, a year's numbers of which are bound up to look like a new annual, and with an appropriate name.

In their names these literary annuals were especially distinctive. They were gifts, tokens, souvenirs, mementos, keepsakes and offerings, with all conceivable qualifying adjectives, or else they bore the name of some flower, plant or gem. Every phase of every subject had its token, from "Mourner's Chaplet" to "Marriage Ring," from "Mother's Present" and "Young Maiden's Mirror" to "Young Man's Guide" and "Pastor's Gift." There were "Leaflets of Memory" and "Thought Blossoms," "Rainbows" and "Snowflakes," and "Dewdrops." The subtitle was usually "A Christmas, New Year's and Birthday Present." Thus in binding, contents, illustrations, and name these interesting "butterfly books" were easily distinguished from the common run.

They were sold at all prices, some bringing a guinea in England, and \$5.00 in America. Then, in a class by themselves, were the little American-printed books, usually in dark cloth bindings, about $4\frac{1}{2}$ x $2\frac{3}{4}$ inches in size. These were not "annuals," but were "gifts," and most of them had several reissues with various dates, but from the same stereotype plates. Types of these were the "Bouquet," "Casket of Love," "Floral Gems," "Flower Vase," "Hare-bell," "Primrose." They flourished from about 1844 to 1852. C. W. Everest was the editor of many of them. They ordinarily were illustrated by a frontispiece only.

III

THE DUPLICATE AND SPURIOUS ISSUES

While there was apparently no reissue of any of the English annuals, with simply a change of date or name, the number of those printed in America, which appeared again under different titles but with practically the same contents, was evidently very large. Except for the few duplications noticed in the New York Public Library list, no one seems to have been aware of this curious practice of some publishers.

In the bibliography which follows it will be noted that nearly every American Annual which was so successful as to run for several years has one or more namesakes, but without date on title.

In listing books of the same title undated copies are placed first, followed by the rest chronologically arranged. In reality, however, the undated annual was almost invariably of later issue than those which bore dates. In other words, whenever a successful series ended there were publishers ready to enter the field with a spurious "gift-book" of the same name in order to supply the not inconsiderable demand there must have been for "this year's volume" of some old favorite. The stereotyped plates of some unsuccessful venture were purchased for a song, the date was removed, the title changed, and some inferior or worn-out picture plates used. Thus apparently the "Token" or the "Amaranth" still flourished. This renaming was so clumsily done in many cases that the original title still appeared in the preface, thus at once unmasking the book. In other cases the alteration was well done, and even the first article in the book was changed. In some of them the original list of plates still remained, with different pictures inserted in the body of the work. In others this page of the contents was omitted, leaving a break in pagination, or a new list of plates was made and substituted.

For example: the "Snow Flake" was published from 1849 to 1855 in Philadelphia, by E. H. Butler & Co. In 1855 Leavitt & Allen New York, brought out an undated "Snow Flake" that was really "Moss Rose" with slight changes. In 1856 the same firm appears with a "Snow Flake," this time the "Magnolia" of 1836, with new plates and the final pages omitted. By not having any date visible, these spurious volumes could often be used over and over again in successive years by simply using a different colored leather binding. Leavitt & Allen, and Cornish, Lamport & Co. seem to have done most of this work of issuing spurious or false tokens.

The opposite of the above practice is also common. That is, a gift-book of high merit was used in later years under other names. For instance "The Token and Atlantic Souvenir" of 1840 appears both as "Honeysuckle" and as "Moss Rose" in 1848, as "Atlantic Souvenir" about 1853, and as "Token of Friendship" and "Friendship's Gift" in some other years. In nearly every case the plates vary, but the text is identical. Evidently the quality of contents was intended to sell these, the old type having been secured for little or nothing.

Another peculiarity is the appearance of the same volume with different imprints. "The American Juvenile Keepsake" of 1834, New York, appears from Bristol, R. I., and from Brockville, N. C., and was also issued under the titles of "Gift," "Gem," and "Youth's Keepsake," in later years.

One wonders if a confiding public was willing to buy "Amaranth" in 1849, and "Garland" in 1850, "Keepsake of Friendship" in 1851, "Magnolia" in 1852, "Token of Friendship" in 1853, "Casket" in 1854, and "Memory's Gift," in 1869, when all these seven were one and the same inside. Did the fair recipient of the same stories and poems each year under a different name modestly refrain from telling of her discovery when next the admirer called? We may ask how, if Emily Percival really edited the "Amaranth," 1852, G. S. Monroe could edit the same work in 1854 under title of "Keepsake of Friendship," and Clara Arnold in 1855 as the "Magnolia." Were G. S. Monroe and Clara Arnold noms de plume of Emily? We imagine not; those worthy people never knew they had edited these works, but they were the editors of previous successful volumes of those names, and the publisher of these bastard gifts did not hesitate to adopt both name and editor.

The case of "The Wreath of Wild Flowers," a book of miscellanies, by John Milton Stearns, published in New York in 1846, and copyrighted in that year, will serve as a final example of how some publishers met the demand for a new annual each year. With the addition of a preliminary poem, and some extra plates, Mr. Stearn's work was used as "Amaranth" in 1851, Boston; "Garland" in 1852, Boston, edited by Emily Percival; "Keepsake of Friendship," in 1853, Boston, edited by G. S. Monroe; "Token of Friendship" [1854], Boston, and also New York, and finally as "Magnolia" with a preface date of 1853. Nearly all these books vary in the unpagged poem at the beginning, and in the plates.

Enough has doubtless been said here to show the advantage of a bibliography which might prevent collectors from duplicating material, though there must still be cases in which I have failed to note the repetition of contents.

IV

LITERARY AND ARTISTIC WORTH

The literature of the "gift-books" was remarkable for its freedom from the slightest taint of impropriety. There was never a contribution that savored of the lack of refinement. These volumes were intended as gifts, and were such that they might ornament the drawing-room table of the most fastidious without offense either to mind or eye. The list of contributors to the English Annuals included all the foremost writers of the time. We find such names as Byron, Southey, the Howitts, Macaulay, Scott, Wordsworth, Lamb, Coleridge, Praed, Hood, Ruskin, Lytton, Landor, Shelley, Campbell, the Brownings, Moore, Tennyson, Dickens, Thackeray, and many more. It was the proper thing to write for these "tokens."

Toward the end of the "annual" fad, it became beneath the dignity of famous authors to contribute and the favor of royal and titled persons was withdrawn. The Countess of Blessington probably did much to stay the approaching oblivion by lending her name and giving of her time as editor to several successful series, notably the "Keepsake" and "Book of Beauty." From her position and her wide acquaintance in literary and art circles she was enabled to command contributions from authors and artists of high repute. Her presence did much also to keep "annuals" in vogue among the aristocracy.

All the better class of "gift-books" throughout their existence diluted their good things with many a mediocre article by unknown or unnamed authors.

As early as 1828 The Quarterly Review asks, "Why, when there are in the country men able and willing to contribute such things [referring to quotations made from several current 'gift-books'] to literary pocketbooks, is there no one production of this class which it is possible to point out as distinguished throughout for its literary excellence? Are the classics of our age to continue to see their beautiful fragments doled out year after year in the midst of such miserable and mawkish trash as fills at least nineteen pages out of every twenty in the best of the gaudy duodecimos now before us?" This is perhaps putting it too strongly, but it shows the tendency to make a few good essays and a sprinkling of true poetry carry off the whole book. Whatever may be said of the literary contributions, the illustrations were usually of a very high order in the early years before the field was overfilled and both pictures and text suffered from the competition and consequent cheapening of price.

Engravers were paid, it is said, as high as £150 for a single plate, and the artist or owner of the painting to be engraved received at times a like sum for permission to use it.

Engravings of pictures by Turner, Clarkson, Stanfield, Stothard, Samuel Prout, Martin, Mulready, Landseer, Cattermole, Eastlake, Wilkie and others were included. A favorite method was to give illustrations from Shakespeare or Milton, the Waverley Novels, Pilgrim's Progress, or Don Quixote, and then have these written up to by nameless authors.

In the United States much the same course was followed by the "gift-book" publishers. At first the little volumes were below the English standard of excellence, the field being new and untried and the publishers timid about such great expenditures as were made across the water. In fact most of the plates were from paintings by English artists, but the text from the first was all American. The foremost writers found a place in the contents of many of the American "gifts," and hence collectors of first editions of the works of such men are eagerly seeking "annuals" at the present time. Many of the best American engravers are represented by fine plates in these "presents." Sartain contributed many illustrations, while those books illustrated with one or more plates by John Cheney are much in demand.

To show the extent to which the foremost American authors of the time are represented in this class of literature, a few are here cited, rather at random, and with no attempt to make an exhaustive list:—

Nathaniel Hawthorne has his first published production in the "Token" of 1830, and contributions in the same publication in 1831, 1832, 1833, 1835 to 1838, inclusive. He also appears in the "Boston Book," 1841; "Youth's Keepsake," 1835; "Memorial," 1851; and "Scenes in the Life of the Saviour," 1845.

Edgar Allen Poe contributed his "Manuscript found in a bottle" to the "Gift" of 1836, and had other pieces in 1842, 1843 and 1845. He also contributed to "Mayflower," 1846; "Missionary Memorial," 1846; "Opal," 1844 and 1845; "Leaflets of Memory," 1850; and "Irving Offering," 1851.

The first of Whittier's writings to appear in book form was his "Light in the Binnacle," in the "Memorial," 1827. There are contributions by him also in "Oasis," 1834; "Literary Souvenir," 1831; "Laurel," 1837; "Youth's Keepsake," 1835; "Scenes in the Life of the Saviour," 1845; "Fountain," 1847; "Bouquet of Flowers," 1845; "Christian Keepsake," 1840; "Liberty Bell," 1846; "Missionary Memorial," 1846; "Opal," 1846, 1847; "Christian Souvenir," 1851; "Young Lady's Cabinet of Gems," 1854; "Cloud Crystals," 1864, and "Evergreen," n.d.

Bryant had contributions in the "Album," 1824; "Beauties of Sacred Literature," 1852; "Cloud Crystals," 1864; "Lady's Book of Flowers," 1846; "Laurel," 1837; "Literary Souvenir," 1831; "Masonic Token," 1868; "Premium," 1833; "Talisman," 1828, 1829, 1830; "Thought Blossom," n.d. and 1855; "Wide Awake Gift," 1855.

Emerson will be found in the "Gift," 1844, 1845; "Marriage Offering," 1848; "Liberty Bell," 1851; "Wide Awake Gift," 1855; "Cloud Crystals," 1864.

O. W. Holmes added his contributions to help make up "Youth's Keepsake," 1831; "Token," 1831, 1833, 1837; "Laurel," 1837; "Boston Book," 1841; "Bouquet of Flowers," 1845; "Lady's Book of Flowers," 1846; "Fountain," 1847; "Memory and Hope," 1851; "Young Lady's Cabinet of Gems," 1854; "Wide Awake Gift," 1855.

Longfellow had a good share in the "annual" craze, though doubtless, as with other authors, he appears in many without his knowledge. We find pieces by him in "Atlantic Souvenir," 1828; "Token," 1833, 1842; "Boston Book," 1841; "Laurel," 1837;

"Liberty Bell," 1845, 1846; "Opal," 1847; "Scenes in the Life of the Saviour," 1845; "Gift," 1845; "Bouquet of Flowers," 1845; "Irving Offering," 1851; "Dew Drop," 1852; "Young Lady's Cabinet of Gems," 1854; "Wide Awake Gift," 1855; "Christian's Gift," 1857; "Cloud Crystals," 1864.

Lowell appears in the "Token," 1842; "Gift," 1844; "Missionary Memorial," 1846; "Fountain," 1847; "Liberty Bell," 1843, 1844, 1845, 1846, 1848, 1849, 1851; "Memory and Hope," 1851; "Christian Souvenir," 1851; "Dew Drop," 1852; "Cloud Crystals," 1864; and "Evergreen," n.d.

We find contributions by Irving, J. G. Percival, N. P. Willis, FitzGreene Halleck, Mrs. Sigourney, Edward Everett, Mrs. Stowe, Goodrich (Peter Parley), Cooper, Catherine Sedgwick. In short, all the American authors may be found in the pages of these annuals.

The work of American engravers in these annuals is notable. John Cheney, for example, who was perhaps the foremost engraver of portraits of his time, contributed to many volumes, until they had so deteriorated that there was no longer a place for work of such quality as his. His plates appear in "Juvenile Souvenir," 1828; "Token," 1828, 1830 to 38, inclusive; "Memorial," 1828, 1851; "Casket," 1829, 1830; "Moral and Religious Souvenir," 1828; "Lady's Cabinet Album," 1832, 1835, etc.; "Moss Rose," 1854; "Youth's Keepsake," 1830; "Lily," 1839; "Coral," n.d.; "Token of Friendship," n.d.; "Token or Affection's Gift," n.d.; "Gift," 1836, 1837, 1839, 1840, 1842 to 1845; "Literary Souvenir," 1838, 1840, 1844, 1845; "Magnolia," 1837; "Christian Keepsake," 1838, 1839, 1840; "Friendship's Offering," 1841; "Remember!" n.d.; "Ladies' Scrap Book," 1845; "Opal," 1845; "Dew Drop," 1852; "String of Diamonds," 1857.

Cheney's plates were in some cases used over and over again in various volumes, sometimes with the title changed, sometimes with it omitted. The plate entitled Love Letters in the "Gift," 1837, was also in "Literary Souvenir," 1838. "Magnolia," 1837, had Esperanza, but this same picture appears in "Token or Affection's Gift" (n.d.) as The Bridge. Reflection in "Christian Keepsake," 1838, becomes Night in "Friendship's Offering," 1841. "The Gift," 1839, has Helen; "Literary Souvenir," 1840, calls her La Jeune Jaquette, and in 1844 she appears a third time, but now as Isabel.

Enough has been said to show what an interesting field for a Cheney collector is here spread before us. Several of the "annuals" mentioned above do not appear in Mr. Koehler's exhaustive catalogue of Cheney plates.

Is it to be wondered at that certain volumes of the "Atlantic Souvenir," "Gift" or "Token" sell at auction as high as $16.00, when they contain articles there first printed, or poems "not to be found in the collected works" of some favorite author, or perchance fine impressions of a master-engraver's work?

Sometimes contributors did not sign their articles, and discoveries can doubtless yet be made in this fascinating field by those who have made a study of the style in which Poe or Whittier wrote.

I hope that this introduction to the bibliography which follows may be the means of still further awakening the interest of book-lovers in this almost forgotten fad of a past generation.

A contributor to the Atlantic Monthly in 1893, in an article reminiscent of his boyhood acquaintance with these little volumes, says:—

“These books were not to be resold; a last year’s Annual was not to be thought of as a present however attractive in itself. Its date betrayed it. They were gifts, and often treasured up as the faded rose and the ivory Malbone miniature of her bridal days are treasured in the matron’s cabinet, because they were haunted with the secret and subtle fragrance of bygone memories. If an old Annual could tell its own life-story, and if I could write it down as it should be written, what pages I should proudly aspire to in the best American periodical! But I fear that they are gone, and that my dream of filling a college library shelf with a complete collection of them is only a dream.”

Would not this writer be surprised to learn that his library shelf would have to be much longer than the popular five feet to hold the collections now existing? The New York Public Library has a very large collection; the Library of Congress nearly as many. Other libraries are collecting them as opportunity offers. The following bibliography includes mention of two thousand volumes, most of which have been seen by the compiler.

The day of the new “annual” may have passed long ago, but assuredly the “old annuals” are with us to remain.

ABBREVIATIONS USED AND EXPLANATION OF ENTRIES

For convenience of reference a running number is given each volume.

In cases where there are different editions, or different titles to same work, the title of first article is added in quotation marks as an aid to identification. The size is given in inches and fractions of an inch, but always measured by the page, not the cover.

The number of plates includes not only engravings, but also the engraved or illuminated titles and inscription plates, as these are usually listed with the engravings in the books.

Brackets around the number of plates signify that no list of plates was given in volume.

In alphabetical arrangement the titles beginning with "Lady's" and "Ladies'" are placed as if spelled the same way because in several instances the same volume appears under both spellings.

The volumes listed may be referred to in the libraries indicated by the initials which follow each entry, though the absence of reference to any of these libraries does not necessarily mean that the volume is not there to be found.

CHRONOLOGICAL INDEX.

An index in order of years to all dated titles in this bibliography. The small numerals following many of the entries indicate the number of times such titles have occurred in this list. For example "Forget-me-not¹⁷" indicates that this annual has already been referred to in sixteen previous years, that is, this is its seventeenth mention. The small figures do not necessarily have any reference to any volume numbers appearing on the title pages of the volumes.
